Hi R&B (and other co-workers of this site),

[Sorry it's an english post]

I can imagine your frustration about the non-response to your requests etc... but i don't think it's a typical WD-users state of mind.

For example: What do you think about the creators of the PDFCreator printer driver? How many people downloaded this driver and how many people really contributed to it ... ?

I think the % is less then the % of WD-users contributing to this site.

How many WD users? 20000?

How many on the different forums asking questions? 2000?

How many are responding to a question? 200?

How many are really active in the WD world ? 20?

It's just a question of numbers and it is everywhere the same

I hope you keep on doing the good work, maybe once you will be rewarded, maybe never, but anyway you've got some fun and learned something out of it ...

Regards,

Peter
